HANGRY BEAR CREAMERY OPENING IN KENNETT SQUARE DECEMBER 6TH, 2023

There's a new kid in town. And he's feeling Hangry.

November 29, 2023, Kennett Square- "Inspired by Creativity. Fueled by Hunger." Hangry Bear Creamery will open to the public in the new, mixed-use Kennett Pointe complex at 660 E. Cypress St on December 6th. Hangry Bear Creamery will produce classic, signature, and custom ice cream flavors made in-house and available by the scoop, pint, quart, or for wholesale. A full kitchen will offer an all-day menu of breakfast, brunch, sandwiches, and snacks to dine-in or take-out. A pending partnership with Old Stone Cider of Lewistown, PA will make hard English-style ciders, Pennsylvania beer, wine, and cocktails available on site. Hangry Bear will also offer a unique ice cream making experience to its customers. Groups of 8-16 people can book the Hangry Bear Ice Cream Studio for 2-hour guided ice cream making sessions to create and package their own custom ice cream flavors.

Five-year old Charlie Shaw may be the inspiration for the name of Hangry Bear Creamery, but the dream came from Charlie's mom and owner, Melinda Shaw. Encouraged by co-owner and husband, Erick Shaw, Melinda conceived the idea of Hangry Bear Creamery while overseeing the University of Delaware's UDairy Creamery for almost 13 years. "I loved teaching UD students how to make ice cream and I noticed an increasing demand from adults and non-UD students who also wanted to learn how to make ice cream," explained Melinda Shaw. "Since I couldn't find a solution to offer them outside of a college-level course, Erick and I decided the idea for Hangry Bear had real merit and that it was time to create the offering ourselves."

Beginning Wednesday, December 6th, Hangry Bear Creamery will be open from 8a.m. to 9p.m. on weekdays (Closed Tuesdays), 10a.m.-9p.m. on Saturdays and 10a.m.-8p.m. on Sundays. The Southern Chester County Chamber of Commerce will help host a Grand Opening and Ribbon Cutting Event on December 8th from 3p.m. to 5p.m. This event is open to the public and the first 100 people will receive a free dip of ice cream.
